PPC FiberGrid – Greece's Fastest-Growing Fiber Network

Behind PPC Fiber stands PPC FiberGrid, a wholly owned subsidiary of the PPC Group, responsible for developing the Group's fiber-optic infrastructure. In less than two years, FiberGrid has deployed a state-of-the-art FTTH network across areas covering 1.2 million homes and businesses, making it one of the most advanced and rapidly expanding fiber networks in Europe. Already, 600,000 households and enterprises -a number that is steadily increasing- have access to ultra-high-speed connectivity and advanced services, via a fully 10Gbps-capable network architecture designed for even higher future capacities.

The entire deployment is based on new infrastructure, designed and built from the ground up to ensure maximum speeds, stability and scalability. For the first time in Greece, the network architecture includes a dedicated fiber line from each household and business to the cabinet, ensuring high availability today and full future scalability. The rollout strategy leverages existing energy infrastructure, significantly reducing the environmental footprint compared to traditional deployment models. Additionally, the network's operation is based on energy efficiency and sustainable development principles.

With a strong local presence, FiberGrid is expanding its network nationwide with a focus on proximity, ensuring wide coverage and fast implementation. This strategy enables PPC Fiber to deliver high-quality connections via a network built for long-term resilience actively supporting Greece's digital and energy transition.

Beyond Attica and Thessaloniki, fiber deployments have already begun in key urban centers such as Patras, Volos, Trikala and Heraklion, with network buildouts underway in Larissa, Ioannina, Kalamata, Corinth, Veria, Kozani and Megalopolis.
